SHIPPERS DEMAND NON-RED PLEDGE

Big Political Pot Really Boils Now; Truman Dander Up

Dewey, Stassen Both Lashed; GOP Spy Probers 'Plain Liars'

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3—A fighting President Truman, bent upon reelection, tangled with every Republican foe who raised a voice against him today.

The chief executive successively tore into his Republican opponent, Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, Harold E. Stassen, who having lost out at the Republican convention in Philadelphia is now campaigning for Dewey, and members of the Republican-majority Congress itself.

Mr. Truman, just back from a nine-day cruise with plenty of swimming and sunbathing under the hot sun, was as bouncy as a tennis ball as he tore into his opponents.

To the House UnAmerican Activities Committee, which is controlled by a Republican chairman, he had some very few-lettered words. He said late yesterday at his news conference of the report of the committee investigating so-called Communist spying in this country, that the committee had uttered "a lie made out of whole cloth."

THIS WAS the President's description of the report put out by the committee which said that the President was protecting disloyal persons in the government service.

Mr. Truman didn't call Dewey and Stassen liars. He contended himself with simply saying they had made highly inaccurate statements.

Mr. Truman said that Dewey's charges that the President had done nothing to get Communists out of the government, but that he would if elected, were disproven by the record.

The President said that there had been governmental machinery for some time to investigate the loyalty of all employees, and that as a result of exhaustive investigations, those few found disloyal had been immediately discharged.

Mr. Truman said it seemed to him that Dewey was more interested in getting Democrats out of the government than he was in getting Communists out.

Stassen had charged that the government's price support policy, which was approved by the Republican majority of Congress, was keeping prices high.

Bluntly, Mr. Truman said that the price support policy is not even a factor in present high prices.

He said, "I'm not going to bother to answer him—the secretary of agriculture will do that for me."

AS THE President was speaking at his news conference, Secretary of Agriculture Brannan put out a statement saying Stassen's charge "is a typically deceptive, inaccurate political statement."

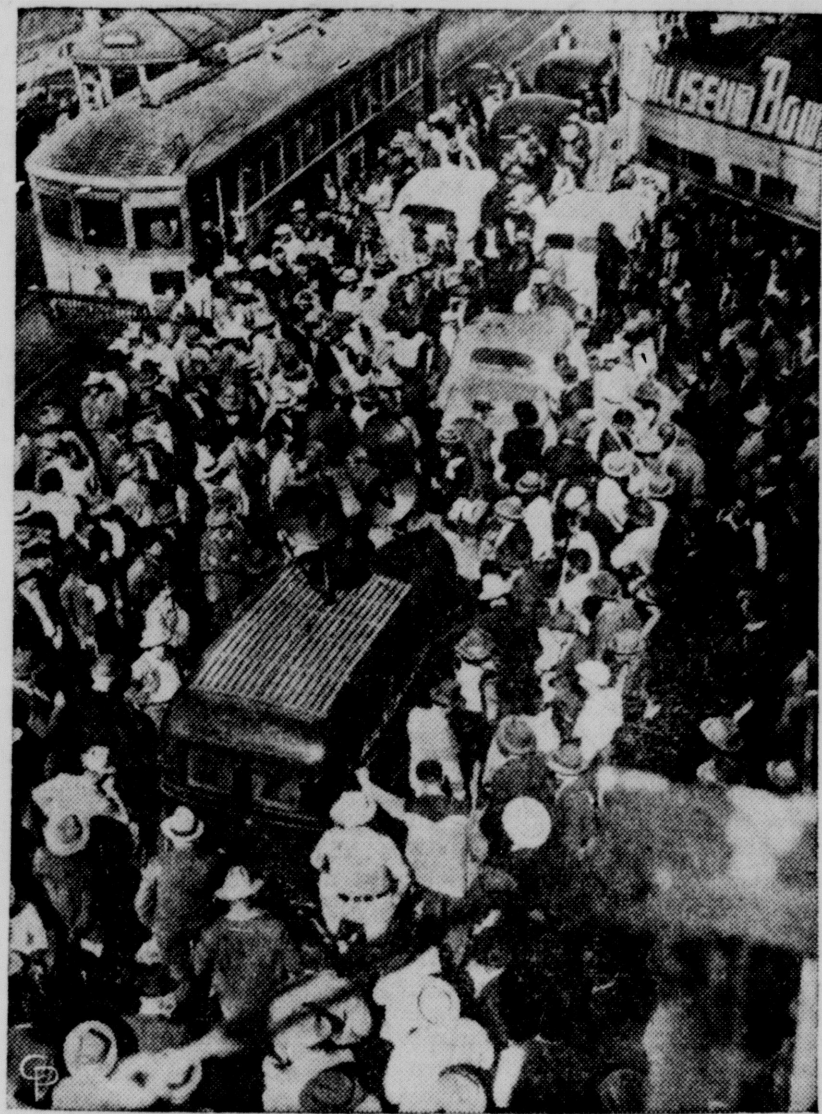

Mr. Truman had a few words to say about the UnAmerican Activities Committee.

He said, in addition to branding them as "plain liars," that he will stick by his label of "red herring" on the entire investigation.

Mr. Truman said he had noted one big thing:

During the war, the spies that threatened the security of this country were German spies and Japanese spies. He said that Russia was our wartime ally. They weren't the trouble-makers during the war.

But, Mr. Truman said, he had yet to find a congressional committee, in the Congress controlled by the Republicans, making what the German spies and the Japanese spies were doing in the United States before, during or after the war.

ALL WEST COAST shipping is halted as 20,000 Longshoremen walk out in a strike. Longshore Leader Harry Bridges predicts will last "three or four months." Pictured here is the overflow of stevedores listening to speeches by union leaders inside the Coliseum Bowl in San Francisco.

Bargaining Out, Owners Tell Union

Harry Bridges Again Under Fire

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 3—The Waterfront Employers Association of the Pacific Coast today refused to bargain with striking maritime workers unless union officers sign non-Communist affidavits as provided by the Taft-Hartley Act.

The WEA charged that the strike of CIO longshoremen which began yesterday was the culmination of 14 years of "disruption and chaos in the maritime industry on this coast, caused directly by union leadership following the Communist Party line."

Australian-born Harry Bridges, object of an unsuccessful deportation attempt several years ago on grounds of Communist activity, heads the CIO Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union.

The employers action in bringing up the Communist issue was announced in a so-called "policy" statement.

IN REPLY, Bridges issued a statement saying he planned to call the ILWU negotiating committee back into session and to recommend that the employers last contract offer be put to a secret referendum of the union membership.

Bridges added: "I shall further recommend that the demand of shipowners relative to the Taft-Hartley anti-Communist affidavit be at the same time put to a secret referendum. If the committee accepts my recommendation both of these issues will then be decided by the men facing a three to six months strike."

At a recent National Labor Relations Board hearing in San Francisco, Bridges denied a previous employer accusation that his union followed the "Communist line."

The strike of longshoremen has idled ships in all major Pacific Coast ports. An estimated 20,000 longshoremen went on strike and thousands of maritime workers connected with other unions participated in the work stoppage.

Picket lines were thrown up in San Francisco, Portland, Seattle, Los Angeles harbor and other points.

Maritime leaders announced that they would unload mail and baggage from arriving ships and would also work vessels bringing war dead home from the Pacific.

Big 4 Military Bosses Convene Another Parley

BERLIN, Sept. 3—The four-power military governors of Germany convened again today in Berlin for the fourth meeting in looking toward lifting the Soviet blockade of the West sectors.

The meeting came amid reports that the Russians are demanding a Communist-run city administration.

As the military governors of the U. S., Russia, Britain and France assembled in the Allied Control Council building, their finance committee adjourned after its longest session to date.

This group is working on problems of creating a Russian mark as the sole currency of the politically-split city. The trade and transport committee engaged in other problems in the East-West rift adjourned earlier.

MOUNTING fears among anti-Communist Germans that the Russians are dominating the current talks were supported by a report that the Soviets are press-

U.S. Jury To Get Case

Hollywood Dope Charge Pressed

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 3—Hollywood braced itself today for a heavy blow in the tempest stirred up by the arrest of Robert Mitchum and Lila Leeds on narcotic charges.

District Attorney William E. Simpson, ordering a grand jury investigation, prepared to take the whole film colony dope peddling and drug using situation to the jury next Tuesday.

Federal authorities declared that the arrest of Mitchum and Starlet Leeds was just the first of more to come.

The film industry was confronted with its biggest scandal in years—and at a time when business is in such doldrums that some of the studios are shut down.

A high-ranking federal official asserted that some of the biggest names in pictures were going to be caught in the net.

HE SAID Hollywood would be shocked by the revelations soon to be made and declared the authorities were determined to root out the film city drug traffic "and we don't care who we have to arrest."

Mitchum, current $3000-a-week idol of the bobby soxers, was arrested early Wednesday in Miss Leeds' secluded Laurel Canyon home.

Arrested with her and Mitchum were Vicki Evans, a pretty dancer, and Robin Ford.

Eduard Benes Taken By Death

PRAGUE, Sept. 3—One of Eastern Europe's last remaining links with Democracy snapped today with the death of Dr. Eduard Benes, former president and co-founder of the Czechoslovak republic.

News of his passing was announced by the Communist-dominated Czech government which succeeded Benes' regime.

His health long had been failing. But news that the end had come nevertheless was a tremendous shock to the Czechoslovak people who idolized him for his Democratic principles and his personal courage.

321 Pickaway Men Are Signed

Pickaway County's total draft registration jumped to 321 at the end of the fourth day of conscription in the courthouse when 91 men in the 24-year-old group signed up Thursday.

Miss Betty Miner, clerk of local draft board No. 98 detailed the following number of registrations:

Monday, 25-26 year-olds—74; Tuesday, 25-year-olds—91; Wednesday, 24-year-olds—68.

'THIRD FORCE' AID NEEDED

French Premier Forced Again To Toss In Sponge

PARIS, Sept. 3—Premier-Designate Robert Schuman gave up his attempts to form a new French cabinet today.

He tendered his resignation to President Vincent Auriol after a week of efforts to consolidate a new ministry in the face of refusal by the strong Socialist Party to cooperate.

As in the case of so many of his predecessors, Auriol turned immediately to Edouard Herriot, former premier and president of the assembly, for advice.

Schuman issued a statement saying he had abandoned his task because he was unable to obtain sufficient support and because solidarity is lacking among the so-called "third force" groups in French politics.

THESE comprise the "moderate" parties which stand between the Communists on the left and the followers of Former provisional President Charles DeGaulle on the extreme right.

Schuman said:

"I am unable to form a government capable of assuming the tasks of public safety which the situation requires."

Schuman's decision to throw in the sponge followed an interview with Francois Mitterand, a leader of the Democratic Socialist Union, whose support he needed.

Mitterand had been called to the foreign office by Schuman, who hoped the veteran statesman would work with him in a coalition cabinet by taking the ministry of the interior.

Mitterand's followers had agreed but only on two conditions—the holding of cantonal (provincial) elections in November and a re-examination of the question of at least partial elections for a new national assembly.

Mitterand himself said that these two factors were only part of the reason behind his decision to refuse a cabinet post. In any case, Schuman decided his task was hopeless and so informed the president.

The Communist newspaper Ce Soir asserted that behind Schuman's inability to form a cabinet lies the growing wave of strikes for higher wages.

Spy Probers Delay Sessions

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3—The House UnAmerican Activities Committee today announced postponement to Sept. 15 of further public hearings in its Communist spy investigation.

A three-member subcommittee, however, will meet Tuesday and conduct closed-door hearings in preparation for the public testimony on the forthcoming phases of its inquiry.

Chairman Thomas, (R) N.J., announced that he plans to complete the Alger Hiss-Whittaker Chambers and the Elizabeth T. Bentley cases before launching testimony on a third spy ring.

Workmen painting the capitol dome first saw the comely nude basking in the sunshine of the roof of the Senate wing.

The painters gaped, aghast, for several minutes before giving the alarm.

Capitol policemen E. D. Adams and Robert Shewell quickly shinned to the rooftop, "looked the other way" while the woman donned her attire.

Miss Smith told the policemen she had come to Washington to look for work, decided she'd like a sun bath, and figured that the Capitol roof was as secluded a place as any.

Nude Sunbather After Seclusion, Chooses Capitol

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3—A nude woman was arrested today on the roof of the United States Capitol.

She told police she was "just sunbathing."

Officers said the woman, a good-looking brunette, identified herself as Dorothy P. Smith, 30, of Malone, N.Y.

She was turned over to the Washington police woman's bureau for investigation.

Circleville Gets Its New Street, Loses Last Remaining Landmark

Circleville's $42,906 project of repaving Court street from the south corporation limits to Pleasant street, was completed Friday morning by workmen for the Decker Construction Co., of Columbus.

The 1.3 mile of roadway was finished in a two-week period unhampered by weather which was ideal throughout the entire period.

The city's share of the project was $7,000 with the remainder paid by the state. Workmen immediately began loading their heavy equipment onto trailers for transportation back to Columbus.

With completion of the work, traffic again moved swiftly through the city. For the last two weeks, motorists have been using one lane at a time.

CIRCLEVILLE officials Friday expressed pleasure over the improvement, particularly to the lack of noise created on the old brick surface.

Few disagreed that the paving job was a fine one, but residents oozing civic pride pointed to one thing:

The paving wiped out the last remaining visible landmark—outside the city's name itself—as to Circleville's "circle."

The old street surface at Court and Main streets showed, in light-colored bricks, where the ancient clockhouse once stood when Circleville actually was built in a circle.

Whether city officials or some civic group would come up with a paint brush or some other method of retaining the old landmark remained an unanswered question Friday.

A chemical analysis of Circleville water disclosed in a 24-hour presumptive test that the local supply is disease free and not likely the cause of scattered cases of diarrhea reported here.

Ervin Leist, water department manager, said Friday he had received the results from C. P. Hoover, superintendent of the Columbus water department.

Leist said several local physicians reported diarrhea cases but attributed it as food-borne rather than water. They said traces of virus were discovered.

The water department manager here said the final analysis probably will not be known until Saturday, but that it was Hoover's opinion that contaminated water would have shown up in the first test.

EAST-WEST CRISIS DEBATED

World Church Council Condemns Anti-Semitism

AMSTERDAM, Sept. 3—A report to the World Council of Churches today condemned anti-semitism as a sin against God and man—"absolutely irreconcilable with the Christian faith."

The report said "no people in the world have suffered more bitterly from man's disorder than the Jews."

Without taking a definite stand on Palestine, the report, which was submitted by a special commission which studied the Christian approach to the Jews, stated:

"Whatever position is taken toward the establishment of a Jewish state and toward the rights and wrongs of Arabs and Jews, the churches are duty bound to pray and work for order in Palestine."

The report called on the churches to provide "without discrimination" for the relief of victims of persecution and to "influence the nations to provide generous refuge for displaced persons." It added:

"God has bound Jews and Christians in a special solidarity linking their destinies together in his design."

"ISRAEL has a unique position, for it was to Israel that God revealed his name and law and it was to Israel that God prepared the manger in which he put the redeemer of all mankind."

The council, which concludes its historic first assembly tomorrow, was told that the churches themselves have helped foster anti-semitism by depicting Jews as the sole enemies of Christ.

Regarding the establishment of the state of Israel, the report declared:

"The establishment of the state of Israel adds political dimension to the Christian approach to the Jews and threatens to complicate anti-semitism with political fears and enmities."

The report stated that Jews should be welcomed into "ordinary membership" in the church, and that "mission (Continued on Page Two)

Wallace After Arkansas Vote

LITTLEROCK, Ark., Sept. 3—Henry Wallace, carrying his presidential campaign to Little Rock today, asked Arkansas Secretary of State C. G. Hall to place his Progressive Party's name on the November election ballot.

Refused permission to speak at Little Rock Municipal Auditorium, Arkansas Baptist college, the state capital steps, and the Missouri-Pacific railroad yards, Wallace finally made arrangements with a radio station.

Another Top Soviet Is Dead

MOSCOW, Sept. 3—The death of the Soviet deputy minister of light industry, Sergei Lukin, was announced today.

Lukin had been in poor health for several months.

Stoutsville Woman Killed In Car Mishap

Mrs. Carlton G. Denune, 48, of Stoutsville Route 1, was killed near Canal Winchester Thursday night when the auto in which she had been riding was struck from the side and overturned.

State Highway Patrolmen who investigated the accident said it occurred 2.9 miles south of Canal Winchester on Route 674 at 5:55 p. m.

Patrolmen reported the car driven by the dead woman's husband had been overturned, throwing her from the car, when an auto driven by Donald G. Moersch Columbus, failed to stop at an intersection.

Mrs. Denune had been riding in her husband's car, along with her 13-year-old son toward her Stoutsville home at the time of the mishap. Denune and her son sustained minor bruises.

Mrs. Denune's body has been taken to Grimes funeral home in Canal Winchester pending funeral arrangements.

The council, which concludes its historic first assembly tomorrow, was told that the churches themselves have helped foster anti-semitism by depicting Jews as the sole enemies of Christ.

Regarding the establishment of the state of Israel, the report declared:

"The establishment of the state of Israel adds political dimension to the Christian approach to the Jews and threat-

Dormant Volcano Chases Filipinos

MANILA, Sept. 3.—Sudden eruption of a long dormant volcano in the Southern Philippines endangered the lives of some 3,000 people today.

Rescue ships were on the way to tiny Camiguin island, north of Mindanao, to take off the inhabitants who were reportedly being forced toward the sea by approaching lava.

Reports reaching Manila said that Camiguin was shrouded in dust after the Hibokhibok crater erupted for the first time in 77 years. Fifteen distinct earth tremors were felt before the volcano erupted.

It Says Here: Vacuum Cleaner Hikes Milk Take

CANTON, Sept. 3.—A vacuum cleaner can go a long way toward increasing milk production.

The Hoover Company of suburban North Canton reported that use of a vacuum cleaner on a herd of 46 bovines on the Fitch Farm, Sterling, Mass., upped milk output 25 percent in the first two months after its use.

It seems lice disturbed the cows. Three men used to spend half a day currying the cows but with not too much success. The owner, Charles F. Childs, said the cows "switched their tails, kicked their hoofs, nodded their heads and generally itched."

A Hoover salesman, however, used a tank-type cleaner to go over the entire herd in little less than an hour.

Now the cows are contented, the farmer is in contented—and so are vacuum cleaner salesmen.

Wallace After Arkansas Vote

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Sept. 3.—Henry Wallace, carrying his presidential campaign to Little Rock today, asked Arkansas Secretary of State C. G. Hall to place his Progressive Party's name on the November election ballot.

Refused permission to speak at Little Rock Municipal Auditorium, Arkansas Baptist college, the state capital steps, and the Missouri-Pacific railroad yards, Wallace finally made arrangements with a radio station.

Another Top Soviet Is Dead

MOSCOW, Sept. 3.—The death of the Soviet deputy minister of light industry, Sergei Lukin, was announced today.

Lukin had been in poor health for several months.

Local Firm Given Nod In Bid For Water Contract

Circleville board of public utilities Thursday night recommended the C. F. Replegle Contracting Co. bid of $41,000 for construction of a 400-foot water gallery extension at the pump station.

Ervin Leist, water department manager, said he would take the recommendation before Circleville city council Tuesday night and ask the councilmen to make the necessary appropriation.

Two other bids were received on the project. The Capitol Construction Co., of Columbus, bid $49,500, and Bowman Brothers of Columbus submitted the low bid of $35,800, Leist said.

While the Replegle offer was $5,200 above the lowest bid, Leist said, the board considered "extenuating circumstances" sufficient to recommend the Circleville firm.

Taken under consideration was the hiring of local men to do the work, the fact that Replegle is a local firm and previous cooperative efforts of the Circleville firm with the water department, Leist said.

Gordon Blake Is To Become 'Life Scout'

Gordon Blake of Scout Troop 107 is to receive the second highest award in Scout work at a Court of Honor held for the troop in the First Methodist church Friday night.

Blake, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Blake of 637 South Court street, is to be made a Life Scout, an honor second only to the Eagle Scout. There are fewer than a dozen Life Scouts in the Pickaway district at present.

The program scheduled for Troop 107 will include also awards to other members of the organization.

The awards will consist of presentation of merit badges, Tenderfoot Investiture ceremony and other advancements in rank.

Dick Morris, district Scout chairman, is to give the Scouts and Scouters attending a talk on the Pickaway district achievements for the year, along with other news and plans.

The program will be concluded with showing of wildlife films, made available by the state department of conservation.

$225,000 Bond Issue Again To Face Walnut

For the second time in two years, Walnut Township voters this November will face a $225,000 bond issue petitioned by their school district with the Pickaway County board of election.

The Walnut Township board of education voted unanimously to place the bond issue on the November ballot to cover a maturity period of 23 years. The law sets a 25-year maximum on maturity dates.

Purpose of the bond issue, the petition states, is to repair and remodel the present school building and construct a fireproof addition to present building complete with furnishings and equipment.

While the bonds will not exceed six percent interest, average cost to the taxpayer will be 2.75 mills or 27.5 cents for each $100 of property valuation for each of the 23 years of the bond issue.

OFFICIALS pointed out, however, that while those are average figures, the rate will be somewhat higher at the outset, but when maturity date is reached the rate will be even lower than the average.

When the same bond issue was presented to Walnut Township voters at last November's election it was defeated.

Following is the schedule for bond maturity dates:
Beginning Jan. 1, 1950, bonds will mature at $5,000 and on each July 1, until and including July 1, 1967.

Thereafter, the bonds mature at $5,000 on each Jan. 1 and $4,000 on each July 1, to and including July 1, 1972, when the last of bonds will mature.

3 Persons Hurt In Pair Of Car Mishaps

Three persons were injured Thursday and Friday in two Pickaway County accidents and considerable damage was done to the four automobiles involved, Deputy Sheriff Vern L. Pontious reported.

Injured Friday at 10:15 a.m. at the intersection of Route 56 and 159, eight miles east of Circleville were:

Mrs. Axel Pedesen, 50, of Seattle, Washington, a bruised arm; and Harland Meister, 51, Amanda, a lacerated scalp.

Stephen D. Sterling, 35, of Tarlton, was injured Friday evening in a two-car collision at the intersection of Routes 752 and temporary 674, Pontious said. Sterling suffered a bruised rib.

In Friday's mishap, Clay A. Meister, 60, Amanda, driver of one car and brother of the injured man, was cited for failing to heed a stop sign and ordered to appear Friday evening in Justice of Peace court.

Meister reportedly was traveling south on 159 when he failed to stop and rammed into another car driven by Axel P. Pedesen, 51, of Seattle.

Following the crash, the injured Meister brother was removed to a physician's office in Amanda while Mrs. Pedesen was taken for treatment to a Circleville physician's office.

Deputy Pontious said Sterling was cited for failing to yield the right of way to an oncoming vehicle.

His car was rammed by another driven by Samuel U. Scothorn, 40, of Asville. Sterling told the deputy he had stopped for the crossing on 674, but the sun blinded him and he failed to see Scothorn's car.

Era Man Awaits Hearing Here On Forgery Count

Ebon Junior Taylor, 24, of Era, Friday was in Pickaway County jail awaiting preliminary hearing on a forgery count brought against him by Sheriff Charles Radcliff.

The suspect was extradited Thursday from Logan, W. Va., where he was arrested earlier this week. Taylor is wanted by Circleville police and at least eight other counties for forgery.

Radcliff said Friday no hearing date had been set yet since he wanted to hold Taylor for further questioning. The sheriff's office holds six checks for more than $200, allegedly signed by Taylor.

The suspect has a previous town as well as Circleville and surrounding communities.

Miss Alice Wilson has been reported ill in her home on North Washington street.

License to wed was issued in Pickaway County probate court to Heber Eugene Beverly, 22, of Sabina Route 2, an electrical serviceman, and Leola Mae Brigner of New Holland.

Louis Latta of Akron was fined $10 and costs in mayor's court Thursday for passing in a non-passing zone on U. S. Route 23. He was hailed before Mayor Thurman I. Miller by State Highway Patrolman Charles Watters.

record here, Radcliff's records reveal. In 1946, the suspect was indicted by the grand jury on a forgery count and sentenced to the Mansfield reformatory.

Presbyterian Church Gets Renovation

Vast Repair Program Starts

Circleville Presbyterian church on East Mound street is getting a near-complete beauty treatment this month.

A rejuvenation program has been mapped out for the building, which is to include such renovations as new furnaces, interior decorating, new stoves and cabinets, plus such repairs as a new roof and pointing up brickwork.

The rear roofing of the building was undergoing a rapid change. Workmen were tearing the old slate shingles off the building and laying tar paper in preparation to reshingling the roof.

The whole roof of the building, including the spire, is to be reshingled with blue-gray asbestos composition shingles.

While roof work is being done, installation of two new furnaces is being completed.

THE TWO NEW stoker-fed furnaces are to replace the four formerly used, and a whole new heating system is to be installed.

The kitchen of the church has been renovated to some extent, a new cooking range added along with new cabinets and fluorescent lighting. A rubberized tile flooring has been laid in the kitchen also.

A serious break in the chimney of the building is soon to be repaired, and, along with that work, will come the pointing up of the outside brickwork.

The sanctuary is to receive a new ceiling, in accordance with the program, and is to be redecorated. The decoration is to include a new system of lighting, also.

AQUILA AND PRISCILLA

A COUPLE WHO EXEMPLIFIED CHRISTIAN FRIENDLINESS

Scripture—Acts 18:1-3, 18-26, Romans 16:3-5; I Corinthians 16:19; II Timothy 4:19.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

WE ALL have experienced the pleasure of meeting friendly, hospitable people who have entertained us in their homes, comforted us in our griefs and helped us solve our problems. Such people were Aquila and Priscilla.

This husband and wife were Jews and Christians who had been living in Rome, from which city they had been banished with all their countrymen by decree of the Emperor Claudius and were living in Corinth, a city of Greece.

After Paul, the apostle, left Athens where he had made memorable speeches, he, too, came to Corinth, and went to Aquila and Priscilla's home. They were tent-makers by trade, and so was Paul, it being the custom of that time for Jewish youths to learn some trade.

Paul stayed with Aquila and Priscilla for some time, working at this craft, and then with them, sailed for Ephesus, where he "reasoned with the Jews" in the synagogue. Aquila and Priscilla were anxious to keep Paul with them, but after a time he left them, saying that he must keep the feast that was coming in Jerusalem.

He promised, however, that he would return to them. From that time Paul had learned of the church in Rome, and he, in turn, had taught them to be expert evangelists.

After Paul had gone, a certain Jew named Apollos, who was born in Alexandria, came to Ephesus. He also was a Christian, and fervent in his spirit, but he did not know baptism of Jesus, only of John the Baptist.

Aquila and Priscilla heard him, and they took him with them, in their kind, friendly manner, and told him about the baptism of Jesus, "expounding unto him the way of God more perfectly."

Differences in religion are very often touchy matters, and many bitter arguments have followed them. However, Aquila and Priscilla were not the type of people who would grow angry over such matters.

They took this man into their home and kindly set him right.

where they thought he was in error, in the most tactful manner. And Apollos, being reasonable and teachable, was helped a great deal.

The kindness of these two did not stop there—when Apollos left them they wrote to Achaea, where he was going, asking the brethren there to receive him kindly.

The names of this husband and wife, Aquila and Priscilla, are mentioned six times in Acts and Paul's Epistles, always together. They evidently were a devoted couple, working together at their craft and in the church.

From Paul's letter to the Roman church he sends greetings to "Priscilla and Aquila, my helpers in Christ Jesus: who have for my life laid down their necks"—which seems to indicate that this devoted couple had risked their lives for their friend Paul. He speaks of the church being in their home and sends greetings to the members.

At Corinth, too, the church meetings seem to have been held in the home of Aquila and Priscilla, and Paul, in his first letter to the Corinthians, sends greetings from them and the churches of Asia "with the church that is in their house."—I Corinthians 16:19.

Our final salute to Paul to these two friends appears in II Timothy 4:19, where he again sends greetings to the two, by name. This greeting was sent from Rome where Paul was brought before Nero for the second time. This was the last letter Paul ever wrote.

As we read the few paragraphs about Aquila and Priscilla we get a delightful impression of two fine people who were kind and gentle in all their ways, and whose home was the meeting place of all—friends or strangers.

Theirs is the type of home we need in the modern world. A home in which Jesus himself would have loved to visit. This is the type of home, too, where Europe's displaced persons—especially children—would be happy after their many harrowing experiences in their former home lands. It is the ideal Christian home.

LAW ON COMMUNISM

THE interim report of the House Committee on Un-American Activities appears to make it certain that the question of enacting new specific laws dealing with Communism will be presented again to Congress in the Spring.

The report recommends the revival and strengthening of the Mundt-Nixon bill, and other legislation to make it more difficult for foreign Communists to enter the country and easier for the government to imprison or deport Communists who attack or undermine American institutions.

In large measure the question whether such steps should be taken hinges on whether it can be established, beyond reasonable doubt, that the policy of Communists in this country is not made by United States citizens, or that Communism in itself is subversive or seditious. These questions may be answered in the forthcoming trials of the 12 Communist leaders indicted on charges of conspiring to teach the overthrow of the government.

If these charges can be proved, then there should not be much serious question that the law should be made as tight as may be necessary to deal adequately with Communism.

JAILING SCIENTISTS

MANY of our leading scientists are in risk of jail. It seems that many who gave the government invaluable service during the war did not resign from their regular positions. Sometimes contracts came up between Uncle Sam and the scientists' regular employers, and here is where the trouble starts. When Congress was in session during the war, it neglected to clarify the law on that score to make sure that it would not apply to the scientists. Now some of the co-discoverers of the atomic bomb find they have rendered themselves subject to $5,000 fine and a year's imprisonment.

The breach of law, if any, is purely technical, and there is no sign that the government intends to use the technicality. Not all public officials, however, are so scrupulous. There are congressmen, as the nation knows to its sorrow, who would throw any scientist into jail if it would bring themselves publicity and seem likely to help their political fortunes.

It bawls out Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg, chief of staff of the United States Air Force, for adopting the slogan, "Air Power Is Peace Power."

Well, Vandenberg may be right or wrong, that not being the subject of the present discussion. The New Yorker enters upon a polemic on the subject of national defense. It says:

"Air power, like any other sort of fighting power, is victory power, or defeat power. Naturally, the hope of aerial people and non-aerial people alike is that America's air strength will be so great nobody will dare challenge it, and that, in that sense, it will be peace power. They also hope that if challenged it will prevail. But it is unfortunately true that the mere existence and growth of military power are a sort of provocation to other nations, whose governments feel either the obligation or the desire to outstrip it."

This is an old, old argument which caught this country with its defenses down in 1931 and gave us Pearl Harbor in 1941. The idea is that this country disarms but its potential enemies arm. Then comes the pay-off and Uncle Sam has two hands tied behind his back. The gentlemen of The New Yorker ought, when they can take time off, to study the history of the Nye committee and the Japanese secret fleet built after the Washington disarmament conference.

This time our potential—and present—enemy is Soviet Russia. I have maintained that that country has been our enemy consistently and constantly since 1917 and must be according to the basic tenets of Marxism. On that subject there are differences of opinion, but there can be no differences of opinion that Soviet Russia is utilizing all its potentials to arm against the United States; that that country has reduced the production of consumers' goods to increase its output of war goods; that it has built an enormous fleet of schnorkel submarines which can only be used for war; that it maintains the largest standing army for the conquest of Western Europe and China that any country has ever had in peacetime. Also, that it has maintained an espionage corps in this country even while we were presumably allied, with the object of stealing the fruits of our inventiveness.

The United States could, of course, adopt a totally isolationist position. We could de-

Condition Needing Attention

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

A "RUNNING NOSE" that occurs repeatedly is so often seen in young children that many mothers tend to take it for granted as something which will be outgrown as the child gets older. This is a mistake because this symptom is a definite indication of something wrong which should be investigated as soon as possible.

Even where a doctor is consulted at once, successful treatment may be difficult because any one of a number of causes may be responsible. Of course, treatment will not avail until the cause is found.

Discharge Gives Clues

The nature of the discharge itself will give clues as to its cause, that is, whether it is watery or thick or, as sometimes happens, stained with blood.

In infants, a nasal discharge may be due to a narrowing of the nasal passages. If they are blocked on both sides, the child will be unable to breathe through his nose and will keep his mouth open. This makes for difficult breathing and trouble in nursing. The nose will be found to be full of crusts which coat the walls. Infections of the nasal passages soon follow and the nasal discharge becomes thick and yellow. Operative treatment is often required.

Some Causes

The nasal discharge may be due to a cold. An infant may have recurrent attacks of nasal discharge due to improper feeding, according to Dr. Charles E. Scott, of Edinburgh. Lack of fresh air may be another contributing factor. Babies who are kept in overcrowded, overheated rooms with insufficient ventilation may develop a chronic, continued nasal discharge. In these instances, the discharge does not form crusts, but may produce some irritation of the upper lip and the area around the opening of the nose.

In older children, the running nose may be due to a bit of material such as paper, a bead, peas or a fruit pit which has been pushed into the nose by the child. In such cases, the discharge is unilateral or one-sided, continuous, and gradually becomes thickened.

Diphtheria Infection

If the discharge from the nose is blood streaked, there is a possibility of its being due to a diphtheria infection. In such instances, a membrane may be seen in the nose. The discharge may be clear at first, but in a day or two becomes cloudy and thick. There also may be repeated nosebleeds.

Infection of the nasal sinuses is another common cause.

Other responsible factors are hay fever, and what is known as allergic rhinitis, a condition due to sensitivity to such things as dust, pollen, or foods. In these latter cases, the discharge from the nose is thin and watery, and the lining membrane of the nose is pale and swollen.

Nasal discharge is a symptom and one which requires thorough investigation so that the cause may be found and proper treatment employed.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

W. M.: What causes a child to bite bits of wool from a blanket? He is two years old.

Answer: It is not unusual for children to form the habit of biting bits of wool from blankets and clothing. Just why these habits are formed is not known. They may indicate some excessive nervousness in a child. It is not a cause for concern, as habits usually disappear without any particular treatment.

CHAPTER THIRTY-FIVE

QUIETLY, Poirot withdrew, shutting the door noiselessly behind him. He went along to his own room. It was decidedly chilly. He went downstairs again, hesitated, and then driven by the chill of the evening, boldly entered the Residents Only, drew up a second armchair to the fire and sat down.

The monumental old lady was even more formidable seen close at hand. She had iron grey hair, a flourishing mustache, and when presently she spoke, a deep and awe inspiring voice.

"This Lounge," she said, "is Reserved for Persons staying in the Hotel."

"I am staying in the Hotel," replied Hercule Poirot.

The old lady meditated for a moment or two before returning to the attack. Then she said accusingly:

"You're a foreigner."

"Yes," replied Hercule Poirot.

"In my opinion," said the old lady, "you should all Go Back."

"Go back where?" inquired Poirot.

"To where you came from," said the old lady firmly.

She added as a kind of rider, sotto voce: "Foreigners!" and snorted.

"That," said Poirot mildly, "would be difficult."

"Nonsense," said the old lady.

"That's what we fought the war for, isn't it? So that people could go back to their proper places and stay there."

Poirot did not enter into a controversy. He had already learnt that every single individual had a different version of the theme "What did we fight the war for?"

A somewhat hostile silence reigned.

"I don't know what things are coming to," said the old lady. "I really don't. Every year I come and stay in this place. My husband died here sixteen years ago. He's buried here. I come every year for a month."

"A pious pilgrimage," said Poirot politely.

"And every year things get worse and worse. No service! Food unpalatable! Vienna steaks indeed! A steak's either Rump or Filet steak—not chopped up horse!"

Poirot shook his head sadly.

"One good thing—they've shut down the aerodrome," said the old lady. "Disgraceful it was, all those young airmen coming in here with those dreadful girls. Girls, indeed! I don't know what their mothers are thinking of nowadays. Letting them gad about as they do. I blame the Government. Sending the mothers to work in factories. Only let 'em off if they've got young children. Young children, stuff and nonsense! Anyone can look after a baby! A baby doesn't go running round after soldiers."

Girls from fourteen to eighteen, they're the ones that need looking after! Need their mothers. It takes a mother to know just what a girl is up to. Soldiers! Airmen! That's all they think about. Americans! Polish riff raff!"

Indignation at this point made the old lady cough. When she had recovered, she went on, working herself into a pleasurable frenzy and using Poirot as a target for her spleen.

"Why do they have barbed wire round their camps? To keep the soldiers from getting at the girls? No, to keep the girls from getting at the soldiers! Man mad, that's what they are! Look at the way they dress. Trouser! Some poor fools wear shorts—they wouldn't if they knew what they looked like from behind!"

"I agree with you, Madame, indeed I agree with you."

"What do they wear on their heads? Proper hats? No, a twisted up bit of stuff, and faces covered with paint and powder. Filthy stuff all over their mouths. Not only red nails—but red toe nails!"

The old lady paused expectantly. He sighed and shook his head.

"Even in church," said the old lady. "No hats. Sometimes not even those silly scarves. Just that ugly crimped, permanently waved hair. Hair? Nobody knows what hair is nowadays. I could sit on my hair when I was young."

Poirot stole a glance at the iron grey bands. It seemed impossible that this fierce old woman could ever have been young!

"Put her head in here the other night, one of them did," the old lady went on. "Tied up in an orange scarf and painted and powdered. I looked at her. I just looked at her! She soon went away!"

"She wasn't a Resident," went on the old lady. "No one of her type staying here, I'm glad to say! So what was she doing coming out of a man's bedroom? Disgraceful, I call it. I spoke about it to that Lippincott girl—but she's just as bad as any of them—go a mile for anything that wears trousers."

Some faint interest stirred in Poirot's mind.

"Coming out of a man's bedroom?" he queried.

The old lady fell upon the topic with zest.

"That's what I said. Saw her with my own eyes. No. 5."

"What day was that, Madame?"

"The day before there was all that fuss about a man being murdered. Disgraceful that such a thing should happen here! This used to be a very decent old-fashioned type of place. But now—"

"And what hour of the day was this?"

"Day? It wasn't day at all. Evening. Late evening too. Perfectly disgraceful. Past ten o'clock. I go up to bed at quarter past ten. Out she comes from No. 5 as bold as brass, stares at me, then dodges back inside again, laughing and talking with the man there."

"You heard him speak?"

"Aren't I telling you so? She dodges back inside and he calls out. 'Oh go on, get out of here. I'm fed up.' That's a nice way for a man to talk to a girl! But they ask for it! Husbands!"

Poirot said, "You did not report this to the police?"

"She fixed him with a basilisk stare and tottling rose out of her chair. Standing over him and glaring down on him, she said, 'I have never had anything to do with the Police. The Police indeed! I, in a Police court?'"

Quivering with rage and with one last malevolent glance at Poirot she left the room.

Poirot sat for a few minutes thoughtfully caressing his mustaches, then he went in search of Beatrice Lippincott.

"Oh yes, Mr. Poirot, you mean old Mrs. Leadbetter? Canon Leadbetter's widow. She comes here every year, but of course between ourselves she is rather a trial. She's really frightfully rude to people sometimes, and she doesn't seem to understand that things are different nowadays. She's nearly eighty, of course."

"But she is clear in her mind? She knows what she is saying?"

"Oh yes. She's quite a sharp old lady—rather too much so sometimes."

"Do you know who a young woman was who visited the murdered man on Tuesday night?"

Beatrice looked astonished.

"I don't remember a young woman coming to visit him at any time? What was she like?"

"She was wearing an orange scarf round her head and I should fancy a good deal of make-up. She was in No. 5 talking to Arden at a quarter past ten on Tuesday night."

"Really, Mr. Poirot, I've no idea whatsoever."

Thoughtfully Poirot went along in search of Superintendent Spence. Spence listened to Poirot's story in silence. Then he leaned back in his chair and nodded his head slowly.

"Fanny, isn't it?" he said. "How often you come back to the same old formula. Cherchez la femme."

The Superintendent's French accent was not as good as Sergeant Graves', but he was proud of it. He got up and went across the room. He came back holding something in his hand. It was a lipstick in a gilt cardboard case.

"We had this indication all along that there might be a woman mixed up in it," he said.

NEW YORK—"Let the poets speak of love, in their childish way," go the words of the torch song, Love for Sale. It is in the spring, the poets tell us, that the witches stir the magic brew in the cauldrons, that the sweet kiss of passion lances the feverish heart so suddenly, that love sweeps breathlessly into the soul of the city as the straggly bushes bloom and the lonely little trees break out in wistful patches of green.

The city must be verdant for love, the poets tell us solemnly. The spring breeze must touch and warm the cold cheek. Amour must whisk into the noisy streets the moment the snow melts into dirty little rivulets, the moment the nights turn bearable enough for lovers to sit in the shadow of the fountain by the Plaza or hold hands in a hansom clip-clopping along through the winding park roads, caught in the silent hysteria of their emotion.

Can it be that the poets have dropped the forward pass again, have missed the bag once more in their hook slide for second? It is summer now in the city, with the sidewalks cooking in the grim heat that is New York's alone . . . and yet here we are wandering along Avenue B on the lower East Side, sweltering on a Saturday night—and love is everywhere. Perhaps these people are too poor and ignorant to know, too lost beyond redemption in the maelstrom of poverty and provincialism to realize that summer is a time not for passion, but for Tom Collines on the terrace, with the dance band purring softly behind you and the conversation revolving, between canapes, around the fate of the world. Politely and lightly. That is the password for summer in the city.

But perhaps they do not know. In the glaring little barber shops, the tonsorial surgeons go methodically about their business of giving porridge-bowl haircuts to the peasants once removed, young and red-necked from the sun and eyeing themselves carefully in the barber's mirror. Down the block, a couple of children in pajamas play on a fire escape with the tired casualness that comes to children at night, and in the room next to their flat you can see a young girl in a black slip brushing her hair industriously.

We edge our way down the avenue toward Seventh street and two more young girls step from a dark doorway with their escorts, broad-shouldered lads in basque shirts and slacks who are kidding each other with tense loudness. They are young ones and new to the serious business of courting; they let the two girls walk ahead and they stride awkwardly behind. Maybe they are Polish; there are so many Polish people in this neighborhood. It is something to see a young Pole play baseball or handle a basketball, swiftly and surely, but in the city many of them are on uncomfortable, unfamiliar ground and they feel their way along uncertainly, not sure of how to talk or what to do.

A RELIGIOUS MEETING OF SOME KIND is underway at the corner of Seventh street. A song sung by old, earnest men and women ends and an amateur preacher in an old blue suit, the jacket belted in the back, reads Biblical passages in some harsh, ungraceful language from the middle of Europe. A big man in a faded blue shirt, his short-cropped hair and mustache gray, stands on the fringe of the singers and looks out stolidly over their heads into the noisy East Side night; there is, of course, a dream in his heart but it is his alone. He hears the old, familiar hymns and he dreams. Behind him, two of the young ones stand for a moment as if the harsh language had stirred in them the blood of their fathers; then the boy takes the girl's elbow and detaches her from the crowd. He steers her toward the darkness of Tompkins Square park and their receding figures melt away in the dim light. Have they not heard of the poets, of Tom Collines on the terrace? Come back, come back . . . but they are swallowed up in the gloomy coolness of the park.

In and out of the narrow, debris-littered streets we walk. Four young citizens sit on the steps of a tenement listening to the dance music from a portable radio. Girls go by in ones and twos but these young bloods are gentlemanly; they merely eye speculatively without whistling or inviting.

We go north toward Fourteenth street. The squalor ends sharply as the Stuyvesant Village housing project looms up before us with that impersonal austerity of housing projects. The smell of the East river, oily and salty, dark with magic, blows through the street. Here along Fourteenth, some of the old ones sit in chairs outside their stores or tenements, three or four of them

This time our potential—and present—enemy is Soviet Russia. I have maintained that that country has been our enemy consistently and constantly since 1917 and must be according to the basic tenets of Marxism. On that subject there are differences of opinion, but there can be no differences of opinion that Soviet Russia is utilizing all its potentials to arm against the United States; that that country has reduced the production of consumers' goods to increase its output of war goods; that it has built an enormous fleet of schnorkel submarines which can only be used for war; that it maintains the largest standing army for the conquest of Western Europe and China that any country has ever had in peacetime. Also, that it has maintained an espionage corps in this country even while we were presumably allied, with the object of stealing the fruits of our inventiveness.

The United States could, of course, adopt a totally isolationist position. We could de-

Condition Needing Attention

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

A "RUNNING NOSE" that occurs repeatedly is so often seen in young children that many mothers tend to take it for granted as something which will be outgrown as the child gets older. This is a mistake because this symptom is a definite indication of something wrong which should be investigated as soon as possible.

Even where a doctor is consulted at once, successful treatment may be difficult because any one of a number of causes may be responsible. Of course, treatment will not avail until the cause is found.

Discharge Gives Clues

The nature of the discharge itself will give clues as to its cause, that is, whether it is watery or thick or, as sometimes happens, stained with blood.

In infants, a nasal discharge may be due to a narrowing of the nasal passages. If they are blocked on both sides, the child will be unable to breathe through his nose and will keep his mouth open. This makes for difficult breathing and trouble in nursing. The nose will be found to be full of crusts which coat the walls. Infections of the nasal passages soon follow and the nasal discharge becomes thick and yellow. Operative treatment is often required.

Some Causes

The nasal discharge may be due to a cold. An infant may have recurrent attacks of nasal discharge due to improper feeding, according to Dr. Charles E. Scott, of Edinburgh. Lack of fresh air may be another contributing factor. Babies who are kept in overcrowded, overheated rooms with insufficient ventilation may develop a chronic, continued nasal discharge. In these instances, the discharge does not form crusts, but may produce some irritation of the upper lip and the area around the opening of the nose.

In older children, the running nose may be due to a bit of material such as paper, a bead, peas or a fruit pit which has been pushed into the nose by the child. In such cases, the discharge is unilateral or one-sided, continuous, and gradually becomes thickened.

Diphtheria Infection

If the discharge from the nose is blood streaked, there is a possibility of its being due to a diphtheria infection. In such instances, a membrane may be seen in the nose. The discharge may be clear at first, but in a day or two becomes cloudy and thick. There also may be repeated nosebleeds.

Infection of the nasal sinuses is another common cause. Other responsible factors are hay fever, and what is known as allergic rhinitis, a condition due to sensitivity to such things as dust, pollen, or foods. In these latter cases, the discharge from the nose is thin and watery, and the lining membrane of the nose is pale and swollen.

Nasal discharge is a symptom and one which requires thorough investigation so that the cause may be found and proper treatment employed.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

W. M.: What causes a child to bite bits of wool from a blanket? He is two years old.

Answer: It is not unusual for children to form the habit of biting bits of wool from blankets and clothing. Just why these habits are formed is not known. They may indicate some excessive nervousness in a child. It is not a cause for concern, as habits usually disappear without any particular treatment.

CHAPTER THIRTY-FIVE

QUIETLY, Poirot withdrew, shutting the door noiselessly behind him. He went along to his own room. It was decidedly chilly. He went downstairs again, heated, and then driven by the chill of the evening, boldly entered the Residents' Club.

The old lady coughed. When she had recovered, she went on, working herself into a pleasurable frenzy and using Poirot as a target for her spleen.

"Why do they have barbed wire round their camps? To keep the soldiers from getting at the girls? No, to keep the girls from getting at the soldiers! Man mad, that's what they are! Look at the way they dress. Trousers! Some poor fools wear shorts—they wouldn't if they knew what they looked like from behind!"

"I agree with you, Madame, indeed I agree with you."

"What do they wear on their heads? Proper hats? No, a twisted up bit of stuff, and faces covered with paint and powder. Filthy stuff all over their mouths. Not only red nails—but red toe nails!"

The old lady paused explosively and looked at Poirot expectantly. He sighed and shook his head.

"Even in church," said the old lady. "No! Hasn't sometimes not even those silly scarves. Just that ugly crimped, permanently waved hair. Hair? Nobody knows what hair is nowadays. I could sit on my hair when I was young."

Poirot stole a glance at the iron grey hands. It seemed impossible that this fierce old woman could ever have been young!

"Put her head in here the other night, one of them did," the old lady went on. "Tied up in an orange scarf and painted and powdered. I looked at her. I just looked at her! She soon went away!"

"She wasn't a Resident," went on the old lady. "No one of her type staying here, I'm glad to say! So what was she doing coming out of a man's bedroom? Disgraceful, I call it. I spoke about it to that Lippincott girl—but she just said as bad as any of them—go a mile for anything that wears trousers!"

Some faint interest stirred in Poirot's mind.

"Coming out of a man's bedroom?" he queried.

The old lady fell upon the topic with zest.

"That's what I said. Saw her with my own eyes. No. 5."

"What day was that, Madame?"

"The day before there was that fuss about a man being murdered. Disgraceful that such a thing should happen here! This used to be a very decent old-fashioned type of place. But now—"

"And what hour of the day was this?"

"Day? It wasn't day at all. Evening. Late evening too. Per-

Girls from fourteen to eighteen, they're the ones that need looking after! Need their mothers. It takes a mother to know just what a girl is up to. Soldiers! Airmen! That's all they think about. Americans! Polish riff raff!"

Indignation at this point made the old lady cough. When she had recovered, she went on, working herself into a pleasurable frenzy and using Poirot as a target for her spleen.

"Why do they have barbed wire round their camps? To keep the soldiers from getting at the girls? No, to keep the girls from getting at the soldiers! Man mad, that's what they are! "And what hour of the day was this?"

"Day? It wasn't day at all. Evening. Late evening too. Perfectly disgraceful. Past ten o'clock, I go up to bed at quarter past ten. Out she comes from No. 5 as bold as brass, stares at me, then dodges back inside again, laughing and talking with the man there."

"You heard him speak?"

"Aren't I telling you so? She dodges back inside and he calls out. 'Oh go on, get out of here. I'm fed up.' That's a nice way for a man to talk to a girl! But they ask for it! Hussies!"

Poirot said, "You did not report this to the police?"

She fixed him with a basilisk stare and totteringly rose out of her chair. Standing over him and glaring down on him, she said,

"I have never had anything to do with the Police. The Police indeed! I, in a police court?"

Quivering with rage and with one last malevolent glance at Poirot she left the room.

Poirot sat for a few minutes thoughtfully caressing his mustaches, then he went in search of Beatrice Lippincott.

"Oh yes, M. Poirot, you mean old Mrs. Leadbetter? Canon Leadbetter's widow. She comes here every year, but of course between ourselves she is rather a trial. She's really frightfully rude to people sometimes, and she doesn't seem to understand that things are different nowadays. She's nearly eighty, of course."

"But she is clear in her mind! She knows what she is saying!"

"Oh yes. She's quite a sharp old lady—rather too much so sometimes."

"Do you know who a young woman was who visited the murdered man on Tuesday night?"

Beatrice looked astonished.

"I don't remember a young woman coming to visit him at any time? What was she like?"

"She was wearing an orange scarf round her head and I should fancy a good deal of make-up. She was in No. 5 talking to Arden at a quarter past ten on Tuesday night."

"Really, M. Poirot, I've no idea whatsoever."

Thoughtfully Poirot went along in search of Superintendent Spence. Spence listened to Poirot's story in silence. Then he leaned back in his chair and nodded his head slowly.

"Funny, isn't it?" he said. "How often you come back to the same old formula, Cherchez la femme."

The Superintendent's French accent was not as good as Sergeant Graves', but he was proud of it. He got up and went across the room. He came back holding something in his hand. It was a lipstick in a gilt cardboard case.

"We had this indication all along that there might be a woman mixed up in it," he said.

Summer Christmas Tree Ceremonial Presented By First EUB Children

Japanese Theme Predominates

Christmas normally comes in December, but children of First Evangelical United Brethren church staged a Summer Christmas tree service Thursday evening in the church.

A background of many lighted tapers and a decorated Christmas tree provided a yuletide setting for the preholiday ceremony. Miss Gladys Noggle was in charge of the impressive children's program which opened with the song "Hurry Mr. Clock."

Elliott Hawkes read "The Christmas Story" from a passage found in the Bible. The children then joined to sing two Christmas songs. Miss Noggle read three letters written by missionaries who are stationed in Japan. The letters contained information as to how contributions received from American children were used in that country.

The children formed a line and marched to the Christmas tree where they placed money under the tree. The impressive ceremony concluded with a prayer.

Prior to the children's ceremony the adults under the leadership of Mrs. Frank Hawkes had a program.

Theme of their meeting was "We Press On In A Fellowship Of Love And Service". The month of September was designated by EUB churches to stress the "fellowship" theme.

Mrs. Hawkes gave an interpretation of the hymn "Oh Master Let Me Walk With Thee," prior to the stewardship ceremonial.

Mrs. Harry Styers, Mrs. Kelly W. Alderman, and Mrs. J. E. Millions each gave addresses. At the close of their part of the program they lit three tapers depicting "possession, prayer and myself."

In the absence of Mrs. Clarence Radcliff, president, Mrs. E. L. Pritchard directed a business session. She reminded the group "World Day of Prayer" will take place the Wednesday prior to "Worldwide Communion Day."

The group adjourned to the community house where Japanese decorations had been arranged by the children. Each child, dressed to represent a native Japanese, served refreshments to their mothers.

Ashville Garden Club Books Meet

Ashville Garden Club has scheduled a meeting for 8 p.m. Thursday in the community house with Mrs. Homer Reber and Mrs. H. B. Quillen serving as hostesses.

Mrs. Frank Dill will give "Timely Suggestion For September". Mrs. Wright Noecker will conduct a "Tree Quiz". Ira Hoover will discuss "Dahlias and Neonies". Members will take arrangements of annuals, roses and perennials for the club flower show. An exchange of cuttings of winter house plants will

Mrs. Crites Hosts Group C Meeting

Mrs. Franklin Crites was hostess in her home, South Pickaway street, Thursday evening for the first Fall meeting of Group C, Women's Association of the Presbyterian church. Mrs. E. O. Crites of Circleville was a guest of the 11 members for the evening.

Mrs. Robert Adkins, co-chairman, presided for a short business meeting. Miss Clara Southward directed the devotional period. She read a story dealing with India, as requested by the foreign missionary board of the Presbyterian church as its study selection for September. Miss Southward concluded the period with a prayer.

Mrs. George Young read a paper on missionary work entitled "One Or All—The Earth" by Lila West.

Miss Southward gave a resume of a brunch she attended in Columbus at the home of Mrs. Herick Johnson. The affair was for the various missionary education secretaries of the society in Columbus Presbyterian.

Guest speaker at the meeting was Mrs. Fu Liang Chang of Changsha, China. In native costume, she presented a dramatic address from the topic "Twilight or Dawn".

Refreshments were served by the hostess assisted by Mrs. Hildeburn Jones.

WSCS Schedules 'Circle Day'

Wednesday has been set as "Circle Day" of Women's Society of Christian Service of First Methodist church. Circles are scheduled to meet in the following homes: Circle 1, Mrs. Vaden Couch, 120 East Mill street, 2 p.m. Mrs. H. D. Stansbury, chairman. Circle 2, Mrs. Fred Duncan, 133 Pinckney street, 7:30 p.m. Mrs. Harold Pontius, chairman.

Circle 3, Mrs. Charles Rader, 313 Watt street, 7:30 p.m. Mrs. Rader, chairman. Circle 4, Mrs. George Forst, 216 North Court street, 7:30 p.m. Mrs. Walter Heine, chairman. Circle 5, Mrs. I. W. Marriage Told

Mrs. Charles Stewart, of Ashville, has revealed the marriage of her son, Sgt. Jerry Brown, who is stationed at Suisun Air Base, Fairfield, Calif., to Miss Betty Love of Oakland, Calif. The ceremony was performed at the home of the bride Sept. 1. Sgt. Brown attended Ashville high school prior to joining the Army Air Force.

constitute the balance of the meeting.

Mobile X-Ray Unit To Be Aided By Junior Women

Circleville Junior Woman's Club held its first meeting of the Fall season Thursday evening in the Business and Professional Club rooms. The group voted to assist with the work of the tuberculosis mobile x-ray unit during its Pumpkin Show week visit to Circleville.

Lee Funk of the Ohio State Tuberculosis and Health Association attended the meeting. He explained that the unit would be here for two afternoons and three evenings. Funk said five club members would be needed during each session to facilitate the taking of approximately 100 x-rays per hour or 1,500 for the entire trip.

For the program following the business meeting, Mrs. Henry J. Schroeder was the speaker. She used as her subject, "Home Decorations." Mrs. Schroeder stressed that, "a house should fit the people who occupy it and that it must be mentally as well as physically cheerful."

The speaker suggested to her listeners that they read magazines and suggested filling clip-pings, visiting libraries and department stores for decorating hints. She stressed, "a home budget is most important and the home decorator should do best with what she has."

Sept. 15, a group of members will go to Veterans' hospital, Chillicothe, to do Red Cross work and on Oct. 1, several members plan to attend the southeast district convention of the Ohio Federation of Women's Clubs in Ironton.

Woman Plan To Assist In World Relief

Ladies Society of Trinity Lutheran church has undertaken a clothing project for Luther world relief. They have placed a box for used clothing in the church where members of the congregation may leave contributions. They expressed the main need of children's clothing.

The group will have a meeting at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in the parish house when plans to further work in the project is stressed. Each member will take articles of clothing to the meeting. At that time a film depicting the work being done through Lutheran World relief will be shown.

Meet Scheduled

Mrs. Charles Smith will be hostess to members of the Westminster Bible Class of the Presbyterian church for their first Fall meeting at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in her home, East Main street. Assisting hostess will be Mrs. Loring Evans, Mrs. Sennet Cryder and Miss Kathryn Leist.

Personals

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Stout, Mr. and Mrs. Luther Bower and daughter, Nancy, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bower of Circleville are expected to return Sunday from Eagle Lake, Ontario, Canada, where they have vacationed for the past two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. James Pierce of Washington Township are expected to return Sunday from New Haven, Conn., where they have been guests of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Perdon and daughter.

The Rev. and Mrs. Donald E. Mitchell and daughters, Carol and Donna, have returned to the Presbyterian parsonage, East Mound street, from a visit with relatives in Racine, Wis., and Roseville, Ill. Miss Carol Mitchell has left to resume her studies in Maryville college, Tenn.

Mrs. Mary Davis of Chillicothe was a business visitor Thursday in Circleville.

Mrs. Nora S. Reid has returned to her home in Akron after being the guest for the past week of Mr. and Mrs. McClellan Clark of East Mill street.

First Church Site Of 'Officers' Day' Meet

Fall session of activities of Women's Society of Christian Service of First Methodist church opened Thursday in the church, with the day designated as "Officers' Day". The program followed the theme for the year "By His Light Shall The Nations Walk". Lighted tapers and bouquets of garden flowers were used for decorations.

Mrs. Clarence Thorne, WSCS president, was in charge. The morning session was opened by group singing. A scripture reading was given by Miss Letha Beavers, and Mrs. Walter F. Heine lead in prayer.

Mrs. Homer Reber, district president, cited changes made in bylaws, changes in committee personnel and their duties. She listed ideas for programs, Circleville meetings and fellowship. Mrs. Reber reminded the women of "Week Of Prayer And Self Denial", Oct. 25 through 31.

It was learned the Chillicothe district meeting of WSCS will be held in the local First church Oct. 27. A conference meeting scheduled for Oct. 19 and 20 in Columbus also was announced.

A sacrificial lunch was served at noon in the church dining-room.

Mrs. George Schaub opened the afternoon session with a scripture reading and the theme hymn being sung by the group. Mrs. Elisha Kneisley offered prayer. Miss Carrie Johnson served as piano accompanist for the day. Mrs. Harold O. Grant directed the devotional period.

Mrs. Thorne named Mrs. Roliff Wolford, Mrs. Richard Funk, and Mrs. Frank Bowling to work in cooperation with the trustees of the church on repairs being made at the church.

The society agreed that working through the Circles they will assist local Girl Scouts in making clothing kits. Circle supply chairmen are working with Mrs. Heine and Mrs. Donald E. Mitchell.

Miss Beavers was appointed to visit the ill and shut-in members of the congregation in order that they might be provided with church bulletins, cards and literature.

Mrs. Thorne gave a resume of the time she spent at Lancaster Camp Grounds. Mrs. Vaden Couch gave instructions on forming study course from four different subjects. Mrs. Couch presented the afternoon program from the topic "The World Council Of Churches".

Picnic Set

Members of Group F, Women's Association of the Presbyterian church, will take their families with them for a picnic Wednesday in Ted Lewis park. The group will meet in the park at 4 p.m. on that day.

Marriage Told

Mrs. Charles Stewart, of Ashville, has revealed the marriage of her son, Sgt. Jerry Brown, who is stationed at Suisun Air Base, Fairfield, Calif., to Miss Betty Love of Oakland, Calif. The ceremony was performed at the home of the bride Sept. 1. Sgt. Brown attended Ashville high school prior to joining the Army Air Force.

constitute the balance of the meeting.

Mobile X-Ray Unit To Be Aided By Junior Women

Circleville Junior Woman's Club held its first meeting of the Fall season Thursday evening in the Business and Professional Club rooms. The group voted to assist with the work of the tuberculosis mobile x-ray unit during its Pumpkin Show week visit to Circleville.

Lee Funk of the Ohio State Tuberculosis and Health Association attended the meeting. He explained that the unit would be here for two afternoons and three evenings. Funk said five club members would be needed during each session to facilitate the taking of approximately 100 x-rays per hour or 1,500 for the entire trip.

For the program following the business meeting, Mrs. Henry J. Schroeder was the speaker. She used as her subject, "Home Decorations." Mrs. Schroeder stressed that, "a house should fit the people who occupy it and that it must be mentally as well as physically cheerful."

The speaker suggested to her listeners that they read magazines and suggested filing clippings, visiting libraries and department stores for decorating hints. She stressed, "a home budget is most important and the home decorator should do best with what she has."

Sept. 15, a group of members will go to Veterans' hospital, Chillicothe, to do Red Cross work and on Oct. 1, several members plan to attend the southeast district convention of the Ohio Federation of Women's Clubs in Ironton.

Woman Plan To Assist In World Relief

First Church Site Of 'Officers' Day' Meet

Fall session of activities of Women's Society of Christian Service of First Methodist church opened Thursday in the church, with the day designated as "Officers' Day". The program followed the theme for the year "By His Light Shall The Nations Walk". Lighted tapers and bouquets of garden flowers were used for decorations.

Mrs. Clarence Thorne, WSCS president, was in charge. The morning session was opened by group singing. A scripture reading was given by Miss Letha Beavers, and Mrs. Walter F. Heine led in prayer.

Mrs. Homer Reber, district president, cited changes made in bylaws, changes in committee personnel and their duties. She listed ideas for programs, Circleville meetings and fellowship. Mrs. Reber reminded the women of "Week Of Prayer And Self Denial", Oct. 25 through 31.

It was learned the Chillicothe district meeting of WSCS will be held in the local First church Oct. 27. A conference meeting scheduled for Oct. 19 and 20 in Columbus also was announced.

A sacrificial lunch was served at noon in the church dining-room.

Mrs. George Schaub opened the afternoon session with a scripture reading and the theme hymn being sung by the group. Mrs. Elisha Kneisley offered prayer. Miss Carrie Johnson served as piano accompanist for the day. Mrs. Harold O. Grant directed the devotional period.

Mrs. Thorne named Mrs. Roloff Wolford, Mrs. Richard Funk, and Mrs. Frank Bowling to work in cooperation with the trustees of the church on repairs being made at the church.

The society agreed that working through the Circles they will

State Fair Closes Today; Hope Given For New Grounds In 1950

COLUMBUS, Sept. 3.—The Ohio State Fair closes today, honoring the National Flying Farmers' Association, which also is scheduled to wind up its two-day annual convention in Columbus.

More than 1,000 delegates and their families and guests flew into Ohio State university's Don Scott Field yesterday.

Today at the fair was to see the close of the sheep shearing contest. Special invitations were offered to Governor Herbert and State Agriculture Director Frank N. Farnsworth, to take part in the contest, all in the spirit of fun.

Herbert gave the fair a thorough going over on Governor's Day yesterday, and stressed the need for a new, enlarged fairgrounds. As he presented the governor's cup to the winner of afternoon races, Herbert said:

"I HOPE we can have a new fairgrounds in 1950, the centennial year, commensurate with the scope of Ohio's great place in the agricultural world."

A horse show matinee was scheduled for today, in addition to the evening show and the regular afternoon harness races.

After the Flying Farmers leave the fair today, most of them will continue on to Wooster to visit the agriculture experiment station. Many of them will go from Wooster to the National Air Races in Cleveland.

Ideal weather yesterday brought 71,554 persons to the fair, easily topping the 60,672 attendance last year.

The governor came early and stayed late. At an honorary luncheon, he said:

"I am sure we are all imbued with a single objective—to give the people of Ohio the very finest state fair possible. I also realize that it has become increasingly difficult to stage an adequate fair on these grounds."

"I hope we can soon begin to expedite the actual acquisition of the new site because it is evident to all of us that the facilities on our present grounds are now stretched to the very limit."

Saltcreek Valley

Eber Drum has returned home after a two-week visit with his daughter, Mrs. Callie Drum Tuller and family of Worthington.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Huffman and daughter, Joyce Anne, of Portsmouth, were Monday guests of the "Valley Home Farm" of Mr. and Mrs. O. S. Mowery.

The 25th annual Crites School reunion was held last Sunday in the Saltcreek school building. Owing to the small attendance, it was decided to discontinue the celebration. Mrs. Charles Kuhn of Tarlton is the only person who has not missed one session, of which O. S. Mowery has been president.

Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Bright were last Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Black of near Circleville.

Surplus Liquor Goes On Sale

COLUMBUS, Sept. 3.—Another sale of surplus liquor will be offered by the state liquor department to the public at bargain prices beginning Friday, Sept. 10.

Liquor Director Dale Dunifon announced today that 53,000 cases, including 138 different brands and sizes, will be placed on sale at state liquor stores for one month ending Oct. 9.

The latest sale is offered on the remainder of 175,000 cases the department has sought to dispose of since early this Spring.

Minimum purchase per customer is an order for three bottles. The liquor will be stored in warehouses and not delivered to stores until the receipt of orders.

Cincy To Get Power Rate Hike

COLUMBUS, Sept. 3.—The Cincinnati Gas and Electric Co. has won at least the first round of its battle with the Queen City over electric rates.

The state utilities commission ruled yesterday that the company could raise its rates.

The new schedule calls for charges of four cents for each of the first 30 kilowatt hours; three cents each for the next 40 hours, two cents for each of the next 100, and 1.8 cents for each above that.

and family, Mr. and Mrs. Erving Beougher and daughter, Alice, were last Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Beougher of Delaware.

Mr. and Mrs. Kelly Hinton, Mrs. E. F. Strous, Mr. and Mrs. John Shutt and son, John, and Mrs. Jennie Strous attended the Swayer reunion at Ashville last Sunday.

A thoroughly fascinating question that lacks any possible way of being answered presented itself today in connection with the revival of four-power meetings in Berlin that promise solution of the German capital's vexatious problem.

Just what were the personal thoughts of the four Allied commanding generals when they sat down to discuss currency problems and lifting of the Soviet blockade after months of strained relations?

There must have been some electric tension in the atmosphere when these men met again and perhaps not all the clipped military conciseness in the world could eliminate all the human angles.

Take U. S. Gen. Lucius D. Clay, for example.

Ever since the crisis began, this quiet-mannered, soft-spoken American commander has been vilified day in and day out by the Soviet press and by Communist-controlled newspapers in Germany.

He has been called a warmonger, a ruthless conqueror willing to starve the people of Berlin by pretending that his air-lift was sincere and successful while actually designed merely to feed Americans at the expense of the German people.

NOR HAS Soviet Marshal Vasily D. Sokolovsky fared too well in the Allied exchanges.

He was ignominiously arrested by U. S. military police for speeding on his way to his Potsdam palace. He too has suffered an artillery barrage of press criticism, ranging all the way from his military and administrative powers to his personal manners.

Lt. Gen. Sir Brian Robertson, the British governor, has been stung by Russian criticism which struck at traditional English pride. He has been called an unwitting "stooge" of American imperialism.

And French Gen. Joseph-Pierre Koenig, with a record for personal bravery in both world wars that has few parallels, has been flogged off by attackers of Allied policy as a weak would-be mediator between the Anglo-American side and the Russians.

Koenig's position has been made difficult by a cabinet crisis in Paris.

His desire to ensure East-west cooperation is hardly aided by the fact that his nation has no government. He cannot tell the Allied Control Authority from one day to another just who his premier, foreign minister and war minister may be.

It is a matter of record and of credit that in all the history of governing troubled Berlin, none of the governors has let his feelings run away with him to any irreparable degree.

THERE HAS been due observance of military punctilio and a considerable regard for personal feelings in the high echelons of command at least.

For months, many pessimists have looked upon four-power rule of Berlin as an absolutely hopeless, thankless task that should be abandoned. Clay, Robertson, Koenig and Sokolovsky may be able, on a basis of personal understanding and broadness, to prove this viewpoint a fallacy.

Unemployment Pay Tapered Off To Half Of '46

Unemployment benefits paid to Ohioans during 1947 were less than half of the total for 1946, C. C. Thomas, manager of the local Bureau of Unemployment Compensation, reported Friday.

Of the $46,500,000 in benefits paid out last year, $27,300,000—well over half—went to veterans drawing federal funds under the GI Bill of Rights. The remainder was paid to benefit claimants under the Ohio Law.

Only two of the Buckeye state's 88 counties—Cuyahoga and Hamilton—topped the $5,000,000 mark in unemployment benefit payments last year. The slightly more than $7,000,000 paid to Cuyahoga County residents in 1947 was only about one-third of the total for 1946. The Hamilton County figure for 1947 was less than half what it was in 1946.

Paulding, in northwestern Ohio, was the only county to show an increase in unemployment compensation payments last year as compared to 1946. Sixty-seven of Ohio's 88 counties drew less than $500,000 each in benefits during 1947.

Only eight counties were in the one to five million dollar bracket while eleven drew between $500,000 and $1,000,000 each, Thomas said.

Court Orders Distribution In Property Here

Confirmation of property sale and order of distribution of the $9,500 proceeds has been made in Pickaway County common pleas court in a suit filed by Donald M. Trump.

Sale of the property went to Leroy and Alice V. May. The distribution was made as follows:

To Frederick Trump, Harry Trump and Minnie Trump, widow of Martin Trump—$1,684.96 each; $842.48 each to Mary and Jane Rawlston and Mrs. F. W. Ewalt; and $336.99 each to Plain-tiff Trump and four defendants.

Court costs and attorneys fees totalled $675 and the remaining $42.77 was distributed to the county treasurer for taxes.

Man Is Innocent In Contempt Case

In a suit for contempt filed in Pickaway County common pleas court, Guy Goldsberry was found innocent. However, he was ordered to pay increased support payments for his minor child.

Plaintiff in the case was Marvene Goldsberry. Judge William D. Radcliff ordered Goldsberry to pay $10 per week support in addition to all medical expenses for the child.

Prohibition Aim Of Dry Group

EVANSTON, Ill., Sept. 3—The return of national Prohibition still is one of the prime objectives of the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union.

Mrs. D. Leigh Colvin, WCTU president, said today that the return of Prohibition will be one of the major points under discussion when the organization holds its 74th annual convention in Portland, Ore., Sept. 22-26.

Mrs. Colvin declared that other objectives which will be emphasized will be the drying up of communities by local option and increase in total abstinence.

Detroit Named 'Woman Bowler'

TOLEDO, Sept. 3—The title of "Woman Bowler of the Year" was conferred on a five-foot five-inch Detroit blonde today by the National Bowling Writers' Association.

Val Mikiel was voted top honors for her consistent performance among feminine tenpin artists in recent years. She compiled 390 points in the national tally to finish 52 points ahead of Phyllis Vogel of Los Angeles, the runnerup.

Mrs. Mikiel, a professional bowling instructor, finished the season this year with averages of 190 and 192 in the Detroit All-Star League.

Bell Annexes Split Decision

NEW YORK, Sept. 3—Tommy Bell, Youngstown veteran, is seeking a welterweight title bout today as a result of his victory over Doug Ratford of Brooklyn in the feature 10-round bout at Madison Square Garden last night.

However, Ratford, who has beaten Kid Gavilan, the Cuban sensation, was clamoring for a return match with Bell because the decision was a split one. Referee Harry Ebbs cast the deciding vote to Bell by a margin of six rounds to four after the two judges disagreed.

Harvey Haddix gave up after yielding the Tribe all their runs in the first four innings.

Mrs. D. J. Carpenter shot the lowest medalist score of the match, a 56, but was edged from place honors when she was spotted only a 29-stroke handicap.

ONLY 15 Country Club lady members joined in tourney competition.

The semifinals of the men's handicap were played this week, and one of the four handicap flights has been completed.

In the first flight Dr. Walter F. Helne gained a shot at the finals by besting Bob Moon two and one on the 18th green, while Dave Evans earned the right to play Moon for the flight championship by beating Loyal Blankenship three and one on the 18th hole.

Karl Herrmann defeated Bill Goodchild one up on the 19th in the semifinals of the second flight, matching him against Rod Heine, who beat Pat Yates six and five on 18 holes.

Third flight play was speeded up during the past week, with R. L. Brehmer Jr. winning the championship by besting S. C. Leroy in the finals by five and four. Brehmer had beaten Joe Bell in the semifinals while Leroy had defeated R. L. Brehmer in his semifinal match.

John Evans advanced into the finals of the fourth flight by downing E. L. Montgomery four and three on the 18th green and is matched against C. G. Stewart for the title.

STEWART entered the finals by defeating Ervin Leist four and three on the 18th.

While the handicap play is nearing completion, all eyes still are turned toward the big match of the year, when John Jenkins and Loyal Blankenship battle for the club championship crown.

Eddie Amey, club manager, said no specific date has been set, but believed the championship title will be played the early part of next week.

Sokolsky's These Days

cide to withdraw all our troops and defenses from all parts of the world and sit back to wait for the Russians to come at us as soon as they have consolidated their position in Europe and Asia. Does The New Yorker—so interventionist during the last war—want us to do that? Is the famous Mr. Ross, its editor, prepared to say now, after the fact, that the conquest of Europe by Hitler was wrong, but that it is a virtue when done by Stalin? If that is the thesis, why not say so?

Also, this funny paper takes the view that we ought to go in for "developing the federal world structure." And they are for that sort of thing after watching the United Nations and the Russian use of the veto and all the effort this country has put forth to make it a parliament of man and all the resistance we have met, particularly at the hands of the Russians, who at this moment are pushing us out of Berlin. It begins to look as though some Americans are so doctrinaire that they would pursue their private theories even at the cost of killing the United States.

The three-year-old trotter won all three heats of the Governor's Stake from a field of nine in the consistent times of 2:10, 2:10 and 2:11. At the reins was Johnny Caton, driving for the Gay Acres Stable of Wooster.

Excell Call finished second in all three heats and He's Third. Double Volo, owned and driven by Veteran Doc McMillen, captured the free-for-all pace in straight heats, making the final mile in 2:05.

Song Girl Nabs Governor's Cup

COLUMBUS, Sept. 3 — The beautiful Governor's Trophy, awarded to the winner of the feature race of the entire state fair harness racing program, was deservedly in the possession of Song Girl's owners today.

Redbirds Allow Tribe To Grab 1948 AA Flag

By International News Service

The American Association pennant was in the bag today for Indianapolis clinched the title yesterday by trimming Columbus 4-1.

However, the Redbirds were lucky in their race with St. Paul for third place because the Saints went down 5-3 before second place Milwaukee.

Minneapolis inched up a game on the fourth place when they were rained out at Kansas City.

Last Place Louisville took a 4-0 victory over Toledo, then was left without a manager when Harry Leibold resigned. Coach and former pitcher Owen Scheetz of Columbus will take over until Leibold's permanent successor can be named this Winter.

Majors Hit Crucial Test In Flag Race

Indians Face Easiest Touch

NEW YORK, Sept. 3—The semifinal phase of the major league pennant race gets underway today with sectional games scheduled in both circuits, following completion of another round of intersectional competition.

In the American League, the balance of the schedule would seem to favor Cleveland, which will be feasting on weak western opposition while the Red Sox, Yankees and Athletics will be cutting each other's throats in the east.

However, it will be recalled that the tailend Chicago White Sox recently took three straight from the Indians, and also have upset the apple cart on various other occasions this season.

In the National League the other tailenders, the Cubs, are pure dynamite. Chicago has successively ruined Boston and Brooklyn, and has an overall record of eight wins and six defeats against the Cardinals. Why the Bruins do not rank higher than eighth remains a mystery to many fans.

NOR WILL St. Louis have any picnic against the Pirates, who have won nine from the Cardinals while losing seven.

The Athletics, who may or may not be slipping, likewise boast a favorable 9-7 margin over the Red Sox, whom they play tonight.

The Brooklyn Dodgers, who face two tough games with the improving New York Giants today, lead the Boston Braves by only two points, as a result of being tripped up by the Cubs, 7 to 6.

A two-run homer by Eddie Waitkus and a single by Emil Verban put Chicago in front, and the Brooks were handcuffed for the last four innings by their nemesis, Johnny Schmitz, whom they had knocked out of the box the day before after losing to him eight times in a row.

Larry Jansen of the Giants finally racked up his 16th win by beating Pittsburgh 5 to 4, despite Ralph Kiner's 36th homer, which accounted for three runs in the ninth. For the Giant's, Jack Lohrke got four for four including a homer, and Walker Cooper also hit for the circuit.

Bob Chesnes, the losing pitcher, who went the route despite a sore arm, had won six straight games.

Officials, Fliers About Ready For Annual National Air Races

CLEVELAND, Sept. 3—Final preparations for the "greatest air show on earth"—the National Air Races—were made here today as race officials hoped to raise the total number of entrants to 57 in final time trials.

Speed trials were to have ended last night at the airport, but officials extended them to today in view of the fact that only 37 racers were ready to answer the starter's flag tomorrow.

A full starting field of 10 planes for the Thompson Trophy Race was assured yesterday when John E. Saum of Baltimore became the 10th to qualify his heavy plane for the pylon classic.

Saum was one of 16 pilots who qualified their craft for the Thompson, Soho or Tinnerman races for heavy planes or for midgets.

Starting field for propeller-driven planes in the Bendix Derby, to be flown from Los Angeles to Cleveland tomorrow, dwindled to a possible six last night as two other entrants were grounded.

ONE OF THE pilots, Jack Becker of Jacksonville, Fla., reported his F-38 Lightning broke down in New Orleans. The mishap may keep him out of the race. E. M. McIvor of Montreal, first foreign entrant in the derby's history, reported his British Mosquito bomber was down at Buffalo with carburetor trouble.

Other Bendix pilots were asked to waive the rule that competing craft must be on the field 24 hours before the start as McIvor said he hoped to reach Long Beach, the Los Angeles suburb in which the starting airport is situated, by today.

Jacqueline Cochran of New York was the only woman whose plane was ready to start the Bendix.

Others reported ready to take off in the $25,000 race were Paul Mantz of Burbank, Cal., the Hollywood movie stunt flyer who won the last two derbies; Joe C. Debona of Beverly Hills, Cal.; Jesse F. Stallins of Nashville, Tenn.; Edmund P. Lunken of Cincinnati, and Linton B. Carney of Houston, Tex.

Stallings will be flying a Mosquito while the others will be piloting F-51 Mustangs.

Highest speed by any plane qualifying yesterday was the 398.634 miles per hour recorded by an F-51 flown by Anson L. Johnson of Miami Springs, Fla.

Browns Due For Opener With Dons

Cleveland '11' To Lack Stars

CLEVELAND, Sept. 3—The Cleveland Browns officially unveil the professional football season in Ohio tonight under the lights in Cleveland Stadium.

Whether destined for laurels or lumps, Coach Paul Brown will be obliged to seek his third consecutive All-America Conference title with the 30-odd huskies who take the field in the opener against the Los Angeles Dons.

Where in previous seasons supreme confidence has marked the Browns' lid-lifter, this year the situation is somewhat altered—and not to the former Ohio State university and Massillon high school coach's liking.

The Clevelanders looked the part of champions in downing Buffalo, 35-20, in an exhibition contest two Sundays ago in Akron, but they looked far from title form in losing to Baltimore, 21-17, last Friday in Toledo.

THEY CAN argue, of course, that they were without the services of Dante Laveli and Otto Graham throughout the greater part of the Baltimore battle, and with only the part-time playing of Fullback Marion Motley.

However, Quarterback Graham again will be partially handicapped by a sprained wrist on his throwing arm, and Laveli, an All-Conference end, is lost for at least six to eight weeks with a broken left leg. Motley still is favoring an injured back.

That means Brown may start but five of the eleven regulars who led the Browns to their second straight AAC title last year.

Horace Gillum, a defensive terror but still a question mark offensively, will get the call at Laveli's right end post. Lou Groza will start at left tackle in place of Ernie Blandin who was traded to the Colts in a league-strengthening move.

Frank Gaisik is Brown's choice for the center position vacated by the switch to the coaching ranks of Veteran Mike Scarry.

In the backfield, only the Jones boys are sure to hold forth. Edgar still is the left half nominee, and Bill "Dub" Jones, obtained in a Winter deal with the Brooklyn Dodgers, will start at right half.

If Graham fails to make the grade, Cliff Lewis, his understudy for the past two seasons, will do the pitching and signaling.

EITHER Ollie Cline, who substituted for Motley against the Colts, or Big Tony Adamle will start at the fullback position if the Canton star is out of action.

Whether tonight's battle can be considered a reliable test of the Browns' capacities still is not known. The Dons are something of an unknown quantity in league circles.

Loaded with stars, but impressive in downing the hapless Chicago Rockets, 7-0, last Friday in the Windy City, but they reportedly were holding back their best to hurl at the Browns.

Amateur Vets Nearing Finals In Golf Match

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Sept. 3—Two of amateur golfdom's most experienced veterans matched strokes today with the pride of Dixie and a 24-year-old putting genius from Oklahoma City in the semi-finals of the 48th U.S. amateur golf tournament.

George Ray Billows of Poughkeepsie, N.Y., teed off against Charley Coe from the Sooner State, while former British and U.S. Amateur Titleholder Willie Turnesa met long-driving Gene Dahlbender of Atlanta at Memphis Country Club.

The 34-year-old Billows and the youngest of the Elmsford, N.Y., Turnesa brothers probably have the edge on their opponents in tournament experience.

But this advantage is countered by the youth and stamina of the Oklahoma man and the southern amateur champion.

Billows swept into the semi-finals with two impressive victories yesterday. He whipped William K. Barnett of Memphis, 5 and 4, in the fifth round and crushed British and Canadian Amateur King Frank Stranahan of Toledo, 7 and 5, in the quarter-finals.

Coe defeated Julius Brosio, the nation's lowest-scoring qualifier, 4 and 3, yesterday morning and eliminated Hawaiian Champion Arthur Armstrong by the same margin in the afternoon.

Davis Cup Draw Made; Opponents Ready For Test

NEW YORK, Sept. 3—Both sides appeared highly pleased today with yesterday's draw for America's defense of the Davis Cup against Australia at Forest Hills.

The opening singles match starting tomorrow, will pit Frankie Parker, Los Angeles veteran, against Billy Sidwell, and America's unpredictable Ted Schroeder against Adrian Quist, Australia's 35-year-old team captain.

The singles opponents will be reversed for the last two matches Monday.

The lineup for Sunday's doubles matches is subject to change until an hour before match time, but Billy Talbert and Gardner Mulloy, who last Saturday won the national title for the third time, undoubtedly will represent the United States.

Only 2 Months Free Of Auto Deaths So Far This Year

Winter Said Ripe Time To Increase Toll

18 Already Dead In Road Mishaps

Since the beginning of 1948, only two months—January and March—have been death free on Pickaway County highways.

In the remaining six months, 18 persons met violent death on county roads and four persons died in plane crashes.

Pointing to the unusual number of highway deaths when compared to the total of seven persons killed in this county last year, Sheriff Charles Radcliff Thursday hung out a warning flag for the coming Winter months.

"Safety driving is always a must," the sheriff declared, "but with icy roads, poor visibility and increasing motor traffic we must take it upon ourselves to lookout for the other fellow."

HE URGED drivers to be especially cautious in the following months with the reopening of schools for the Fall and Winter terms.

"Heed all traffic signs, drive slow in school zones and obey traffic regulations dealing with school buses stopped on highways taking on or discharging students," Radcliff warned.

At the same time, the sheriff urged parents to educate their children to the dangers of traffic while travelling to and from school. "We must protect our children," Radcliff declared.

In his warning on highway safety, the sheriff recounted the traffic deaths by months which follow:

June led all other months accounting for six deaths in a 30-day period, followed by four deaths each in February and April, two in May and one each in July and August.

Radcliff listed the following causes:

Twelve persons died in Pickaway county in truck and auto accidents. These included collisions with a train, bus, and one man fell beneath the wheels of a truck on which he was riding.

The remaining causes were two deaths on a tractor and four on motorcycles.

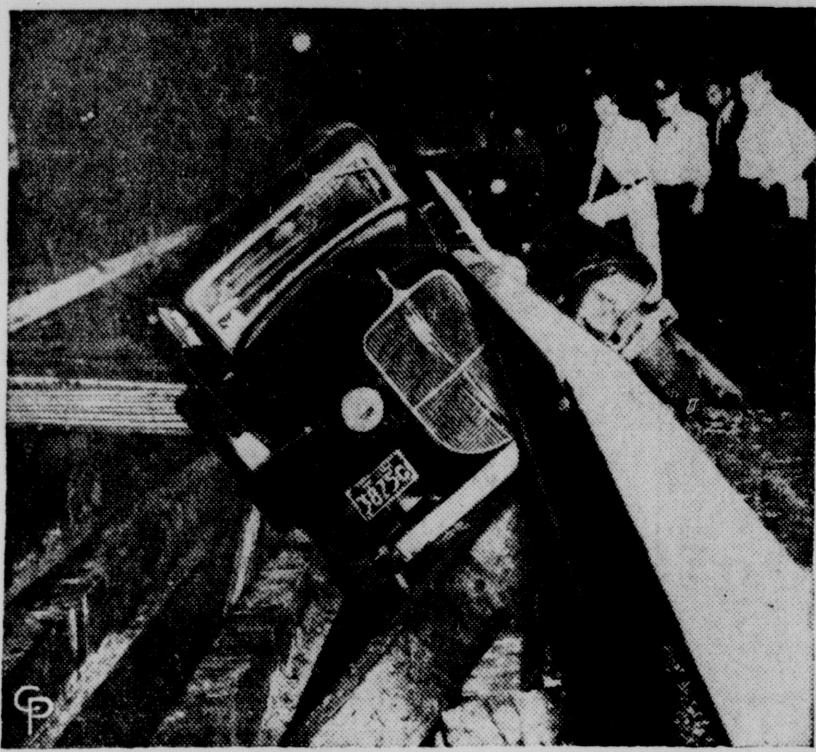

Sheriff Radcliff declared that "these figures speak for themselves. You are the driver of your car and it is up to YOU to prevent the 19th fatality."

Brehm Claims Solons 'Go Limit' On Aiding Present Housing Setup

Walter E. Brehm of Logan, Ohio 11th District representative to Congress, declared in Washington Thursday that Congress had "gone the limit" on housing legislation considering current circumstances.

"True, we did not endorse a public housing program but the administration itself proved by actual tryout that a government bureau cannot create laborers in the construction industry, nor lumber, nor soilpipe, nor lathe, nor plaster, nor materials of any kind—and its failure to do so was not for lack of directives or expenditure of public monies," the congressman asserted.

Brehm referred to the Office of Housing Expediter, created at President Truman's request in 1946 for the avowed purpose of getting houses built.

Under the Act, Brehm recalled, detailed plans for houses had to be approved in Washington, OPA ceilings prevented producers from raising wages to a point that would attract workers to the industry. Rules and regulations strangled progress—the time lag between starting a house and finishing it grew longer and longer. In short, the house expediter himself could not claim success for the program, Brehm said.

"THE HOUSING bill which the President demands be enacted immediately could not provide for the construction of any public housing at this time. He must admit even to himself that such a program now would only intensify competition for material and manpower—a jet assist for inflation," Brehm asserted. "Yet he called a special session for immediate enactment of this measure."

Brehm claimed statistics showed that only 435,000 dwellings were completed in 1946 under the government program. In 1947, after expiration of the Act, construction of housing units leaped to nearly 850,000. This year's estimate is above 950,000, an all time high.

"The 80th Congress need not apologize for unshackling the construction industry," he declared.

The Congressional Record also shows that Brehm favored measures providing veterans housing preferences, guaranteed them home loans, and established easy credit channels for benefit of ex-GIs.

In addition housing legislation passed at the special session will stimulate private building of low cost houses by increasing loan and mortgage guaranties. "That's my record and I defy any one to show that it discourages home construction," Brehm said.

More Awards Go To Area Entries In State Fair

Thursday at Ohio State Fair was another day in which Pickaway area entries were handed more prize ribbons.

In the swine show, Harley H. Runkle of Ashville, who raises Yorkshires, brought home a second in get-of-sire, second in junior boar pig and third in junior yearling boar.

In the fine harness competition, O. O. Burt of Londonderry, who wintered at Pickaway Fairgrounds, took two sixth-place awards—one in the junior fine harness stake and the other in the Ohio three-gaited stake.

Electric Firm Surprises City Legal Advisers

COLUMBUS, Sept. 3—Attorneys in Columbus and 62 other Ohio communities looked up dazedly today and admitted the electric rate increased charged by the Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co. actually went into effect a month before they thought it would.

Numerous complaints were received stating the company had dated the increase back to July 16 instead of Aug. 16. Columbus Mayor James A. Rhodes said:

"I was surprised too, but legally the company can put the increase on back to July. Technically, under the contract, the surcharge went into effect, Aug. 16, but actually it went into effect a month before that."

Council President Joseph R. Jones said council "now realizes just how bad our contract with the company really is."
